

{rokbox title=|Colombian Cow Tells Stories by Foreigners|}images/stories/turistainternacional/Colombia/noticias/vaca1.jpg{/rokbox}

Colombian Cow Tells Stories by Foreigners

The best experiences of foreigners visiting Colombia may be found attached to a life-size iron cow located at the renowned Andrés Carne de Res restaurant, in Bogotá.

The messages posted by foreigners on the cow will be collected and published as testimonials on the portal www.colombia.travel.

Every foreigner that enters the restaurant may approach the cow, which bears the logo of the “Colombia, the risk is wanting to stay” campaign, and attach a note on what they liked most about Colombia, experiences and adventures or, simply, the impression the country made on them.

{rokbox title=|Colombian Cow Tells Stories by Foreigners|}images/stories/turistainternacional/Colombia/noticias/vaca2.jpg{/rokbox}

Colombian Cow Tells Stories by Foreigners

So far, among the testimonials found on the cow, messages on the following stand out:

- the human warmth of the Colombian people,
- unforgettable landscapes,
- destinations,
- gastronomical diversity
- and different Colombian cultures.