

Tourists who travel to Colombia should not face too many inconveniences when staying in the country. However, there is some important information to keep in mind:

Emergency Numbers (free countrywide phone lines)

- National Police: 112
- Civil Defense: 144 or 640 0090 in Bogotá
- Administrative Security Department DAS: 153
- Colombian Red Cross: Log on to www.cruzrojacolombiana.org and check the office number of the corresponding department.

Customs

The traveler from abroad arriving in Colombia will be given the Declaration of Baggage and Currency form, which will be signed by the traveler, specifying the personal effects, merchandise and the amount of currency that he is bringing into the country.

Personal effects

Personal effects are all new and used articles a traveler may need for his personal use during his trip, taking into account the circumstances of the trip, contained in the baggage accompanying him or those which he carries on his person or in his hand baggage, but excluding any merchandise that is brought in for commercial purposes.

Baggage

Accompanying baggage Accompanying baggage is that which the traveler brings with him on entering the country. It may contain his personal effects and/or permitted articles. Non-accompanied baggage Non-accompanied baggage is that which enters the country before or after the arrival of the traveler, and should be consigned in his name. If part of the baggage has already entered or will enter as cargo, it must be declared on the Declaration of Baggage and Currency, and inform the customs officer before leaving the customs area. Otherwise the baggage will be treated as goods to be nationalized. Baggage that enters thirty days before or ninety days after the date of arrival of the traveler must pay a duty of 15%. Duty-free entry of merchandise The traveler may bring duty-free merchandise into Colombia in addition to his personal effects. Duty-free entry of merchandise

The traveler may bring duty-free merchandise into Colombia in addition to his personal effects.

Conditions of duty-free merchandise

- Permanence abroad: any length of time.
- Value of merchandise in US dollars: $1.500.
- Type of goods: for personal and family use.
- Maximum quantity: non-commercial quantities.
- Type of baggage: accompanied.

Procedure

The procedure employs a “traffic light”, a system that randomly selects a piece of baggage.

If on pressing the button at the traffic light entrance the light turns green, the traveler may continue, but if it turns red the baggage must be checked.

Passengers from abroad whose baggage consists of duty-free merchandise may take the “Nothing to Declare” route (traffic light). Passengers who bring in articles to be declared should approach customs officers to pay the duty.

ExampleA person who has been abroad for four days may bring with him a vacuum cleaner, a sewing machine, a television set, a video camera or a computer, or goods for personal use when they are not worth more than US$500. Entering merchandise on which duty is payable

The traveler may bring with him, in addition to his personal effects, merchandise on which duty is payable.

Conditions of merchandise on which duty is payable:

- Permanence abroad: 5 days or more.
- Value of merchandise in US dollars: $2.500.

- Types of goods: articles for domestic use, whether electrical or otherwise, sports goods, and goods relevant to the traveler's activity.
- Maximum quantity: 3 of each article.
- Duty payable: up to US$ 1.500 is duty free, a duty of 15% is payable on US$2.500. Only once a year.
- Type of baggage: accompanied or non-accompanied baggage.

Entering of merchandise by children under age

Children under age may only bring merchandise equivalent of 50% of the value of the indicated amounts.

Articles or goods that may not enter by this means:

- Vehicles and railway or automobile material.
- Aircraft, hot-air balloons, zeppelins and gliders.
- Ships or any floating artifacts and/or their parts.
- Arms, munitions and explosives.
- Transport materials such as tires and spare parts for cars or machines.
- Exception: bicycles, wheel chairs and prams.

Example If the traveler has been abroad for more than five days, the limit is US$4.000. Included are articles for domestic use, sports goods and those that are relevant for the traveler's activity. He may enter 3 of each that do not exceed the US$ 4.000 limit, of which US$ 1.500 are duty-free. The remaining US$2.500 pay a duty of 15% (only once a year). For this reason, it is important to carry the receipt for the acquired articles to verify their value. Declaration of
