As an active member of ICCA (International Congress and Convention Association) and for the first time since the World Bank created the Doing Business report, Colombia has been ranked as the third country with the best business atmosphere in Latin America. In April 2010 Colombia became part of the CIVETS, being recognized internationally as a country of large business opportunities for multinationals and for direct foreign investment.

The country is recognized around the world for providing perfect organization with innovative ideas that surpass the expectations of its corporate visitors.

The World Economic Forum Latin America 2010 and the 50th IDB Governors' Assembly in 2009, among others, are examples of local and international events that Colombia has hosted and that have gathered thousands of visitors.

All of these experiences and many more will prove you that in Colombia, the only risk is wanting to stay.
